

TERRAHASH ENERGY LLC

Registered in the Cayman Islands

Established 2013

U.S. Headquarters: Los Angeles, California | Hong Kong Headquarters: Hong Kong

PROCEDURES FOR SHAREHOLDERS TO PROPOSE A PERSON FOR ELECTION AS A DIRECTOR

These procedures describe the mechanisms available to a shareholder of TerraHash Energy LLC (the "Company") to propose a person for election to the Board of Directors of the Company (the "Board"). These procedures are subject at all times to the Company's Memorandum and Articles of Association (the "Articles"), applicable Cayman Islands law, and any other legal or regulatory requirements that may apply to the Company.

(i) Require the holding of a general meeting

A shareholder or group of shareholders that satisfies the requisition rights set out in the Articles and applicable Cayman Islands law may submit a written requisition to the Board, the Company Secretary or another officer designated by the Board, requesting that a general meeting be convened for the purpose of considering the election of a director.

The requisition should clearly identify the shareholder(s) making the request, describe the business proposed for consideration, state the full name of the proposed director candidate, and include sufficient information to demonstrate the requisitioning shareholder(s)' entitlement to exercise the relevant rights. Any ownership threshold, notice period, meeting timetable and procedural requirement will be determined by the Articles and applicable law in effect at the relevant time.

Upon receipt of a valid requisition, the Company will process the request and, where required, convene the general meeting in accordance with the Articles and applicable law. The meeting notice will state the applicable voting procedures, record date requirements and any additional information required from the proposing shareholder(s) or the proposed candidate.

(ii) Propose a person at a general meeting held for the purpose of electing directors

Where a general meeting is to be held for the election of directors, a shareholder who is entitled to attend and vote at that meeting may propose a person for election in accordance with the Articles and the procedures stated in the notice of meeting.

The proposing shareholder should deliver a signed written notice of nomination (the "Nomination Notice") together with a signed written consent from the proposed candidate confirming his or her willingness to be elected and to serve as a director if elected (the "Consent Notice"). The Nomination Notice and Consent Notice must be received within the period prescribed by the Articles or specified in the relevant meeting materials.

Information to accompany a director nomination

To enable the Company to evaluate the proposed nomination and provide appropriate information to shareholders, the Nomination Notice and supporting materials should include, to the extent applicable:

1. the full legal name and principal contact information of the proposed candidate;
2. a current biography describing the candidate's education, professional qualifications, principal occupations, business experience and other current or recent directorships;
3. a description of any material relationship, transaction, interest or affiliation between the candidate and the Company, its directors, senior management or significant shareholders that could reasonably be relevant to the candidate's service on the Board;
4. information reasonably necessary for the Board or its Corporate Governance and Nomination Committee to assess the candidate's qualifications, experience, skills, independence (where applicable), potential conflicts of interest and eligibility to serve under the Articles and applicable law;
5. confirmation that the candidate is not aware of any legal, regulatory or other disqualification that would prevent him or her from serving as a director of the Company; and
6. the candidate's written consent to the nomination, election and public disclosure of information reasonably required in connection with the nomination and election process.

The proposing shareholder should also provide his, her or its full name, contact information, and reasonable evidence of the shareholder's ownership or voting entitlement as of the applicable record date. If the shares are held through a nominee, broker, custodian or other intermediary, the Company may request additional evidence sufficient to verify the proposing shareholder's rights.

Review and disclosure of the proposed nomination

The Board and, where appropriate, the Corporate Governance and Nomination Committee may review the proposed candidate's qualifications and request additional information reasonably necessary to complete its assessment. A valid shareholder nomination will be handled in accordance with the Articles and applicable law. The Company may disclose the candidate's biographical and other required information to shareholders in the relevant meeting materials or other corporate communications.

Submission of nomination materials

Nomination materials should be directed to the Company Secretary or the corporate governance contact designated by the Company. Unless different instructions are provided in the applicable meeting notice, shareholders may begin the submission process through the Company's official corporate contact:

TerraHash Energy LLC

Corporate Governance / Shareholder Matters

Email: ir@terrahashenergy.com

Physical delivery instructions for the U.S. Headquarters or Hong Kong Headquarters will be provided in the relevant meeting notice or by the Company upon request.

Governing documents. These procedures summarize the Company's shareholder director nomination process. If these procedures are inconsistent with the Articles or applicable law, the Articles and applicable law will control. The Board may update these procedures as appropriate.